History of UNC Basketball: It's Magic!

"Let's Go CAR-O-LIN-A!"

That's the war cry which has inspired University of North Carolina athletes through 56 years of basketball competition. And Tar Heels everywhere will tell you—you ain't heard nothing yet.

Enthusiasm these days is at an all-time high as Carolina takes the court under the direction of Dean Smith, one of the country's brightest and boldest coaches.

Carolina basketball is big—anyway you look at it. And here are some reasons why:

1. In the 56 years of competition, Tar Heel teams have won a whopping total of 881 games while losing only 395. Twice—in 1924 and 1957—UNC won the national collegiate championship. And in the 1966-67 season, the Tar Heels threatened to do it again, going all the way to the NCAA semi-finals.

2. The Tar Heels play before big crowds. Twenty-six of the team's 32 games in 1966-67 were played before sellout crowds. The only game played at home that wasn't a sellout was the contest with Wake Forest. There was a snowstorm the night of the game and even the Wake Forest team was stranded on the highway 45 minutes trying to get to the gym.

3. The Tar Heels play big-time foes. Carolina teams travel from coast-to-coast, meeting such perennial powers as Kentucky, Vanderbilt, Ohio State, Kansas, Utah, Cincinnati, Princeton, Indiana, and many more. But nowhere is the competition tougher than in Carolina's own Atlantic Coast Conference. The teams in that league, North Carolina State, Wake Forest, Duke, South Carolina, Clemson, Maryland and Virginia, are all traditional rivals.

4. Carolina has big-time facilities. Carmichael Auditorium—called "The Blue Heaven" is a beautiful arena, seating 8,800. Other athletic facilities at the University are among the best to be found anywhere.

Carolina started playing intercollegiate basketball in 1911 and has fielded a team every year since. The first great team was the 1924 club which was voted by the Helms Foundation as the National Champion. It featured such great players as Jack Cobb, Cartwright Carmichael and Monk McDonald. This club swept 24 straight games.

The 1957 Carolina team, coached by Frank McGuire, duplicated the trick of the 1924 team, also sweeping the national championship and going through an entire season undefeated. This club won 32 in a row.

The 1957 team defeated Kansas and the great Wilt Chamberlain, 54-53, in the NCAA finals in a thriller that went into three overtimes. Lennie Rosenbluth, voted Helms Foundation Player of the Year, was the star of that Tar Heel team. Other starters were Joe Quigg, Pete Brennan, Tommy Kearns and Bob Cunningham.

Dick Grubar and Friends

Other Tar Heel teams have been threats for the national title. The 1946 team coached by Ben Carnevale went all the way to the national finals where it bowed to Oklahoma A and M and the great Bob Kurland by only 43-40. This team featured such stars as John (Hook) Dillon, Bones McKinney, Bob Paxton, Jim White and Jim Jordan.

Dean Smith's 1966-67 team made magic, too. This Tar Heel club swept the Atlantic Coast Conference championship, defeating the state rivals, Duke, North Carolina State and Wake Forest, three times each.

Smith's team then won the Eastern championship with convincing wins over Princeton and Boston College. The Tar Heels lost to Dayton in the national semifinals.

It is interesting to note that 47 of Carolina's 56 basketball teams have had winning seasons. Since 1945, 17 of the 23 Tar Heel teams have won 15 or more games.

The teams of 1945, 1946, 1948, 1949, 1957, 1959, and 1967 topped the 20-victory mark.

There is no doubt about it. Tar Heel basketball is big—and getting bigger all the time.

Number One Follower of Tar Heel Athletics

Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson, the No. 1 fan of University of North Carolina athletic teams, celebrated the Tar Heels' great 1966-67 basketball season by inviting all the squadmen to his home for dinner. And the Tar Heels returned the favor by presenting the Chancellor an "NCAA Tournament watch."

Chancellor Sitterson long has been an enthusiastic follower of all Tar Heel teams. The busy and often frantic schedule of being Chancellor of one of America's great Universities does not interfere with his attendance at major sports events on campus.

Whether the Tar Heels win or lose, the Chancellor usually is the first man in the dressing room after a big game. He walks from player to player, expressing his admiration for a game well played.

Chancellor Sitterson has an approach to athletics that is basic and understandable. "I look at our athletic department in the same manner I might look at our English or our history department," he says. "I expect a certain amount of excellence. Athletics on the college level should be administered properly and above reproach. Our coaches are highly capable men. Our teams should perform accordingly."

This is Chancellor Sitterson's 41st year on the Carolina campus. In 1927, he enrolled here as a student. He became the No. 1 man on the campus on May 9, 1966 when he was named to head the University.

The Chancellor was honored in June when he was awarded the honorary degree, Doctor of Literature, at the University of Chattanooga.

Professor Sitterson was elected by his colleagues to be chairman of the American Conference of Academic Deans and served in that top post in 1964-65. It is one of the highest academic offices that can be held by a scholar and administrator in higher education in the United States.

The American Conference of Academic Deans is composed of liberal arts and arts and sciences administrators in the rank of dean, with representation from more than 500 of the leading colleges and universities in the United States having membership in the Association of American Colleges.

He was chosen in 1958 to be one of 35 deans from throughout the nation to attend the Harvard University Institute for College and University Administrators, participating in a week-long discussion on faculty recruitment, faculty promotion, curriculum planning, budget policy and the decision-making functions of the academic dean.

CHANCELLOR J. CARLYLE SITTERSON

He is listed in: Who's Who in America; Who's Who in the South; Who Knows What; and the Directory of American Scholars.

He was simultaneously Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and Dean of the General College. He served in both these capacities until 1965 when he was made Vice Chancellor of the University, with authority over all the central campus, and also the Schools in the Health Affairs area which includes Medical School, Dentistry, Nursing, Pharmacy and Public Health.

Carlyle Sitterson was a member of Phi Beta Kappa when he was a student in the University from 1927-1931.

He is an enthusiastic and inspiring teacher. In 1954, the campus literary magazine, The Carolina Quarterly, identified him as one of the "Ten Outstanding Professors" as adjudged by students in the University.

He was selected to be a Kenan Professor in 1961.

He received the Ph.D. degree at Chapel Hill in 1937, the M.A. in 1932. He has been a member of the faculty since 1935.

Chuck Erickson Story

North Carolina's magical march to ACC and Eastern basketball championships last season served as another tribute to the leadership of Charles P. (Chuck) Erickson, the University's veteran Director of Athletics.

Erickson long has taken great pride in Tar Heel basketball which has produced two national champions and is rated among the best played anywhere in the country.

In fact, in his 15 years as Director of Athletics, Erickson has shaped up a program in all sports which ranks among the best. He is regarded as one of the nation's most able athletic administrators.

Erickson plans and directs the University's 12-sport program. He is the No. 1 fan of each of these teams. He gets just as excited over a swimming or soccer victory as he does over a Saturday afternoon football triumph.

Twice in the past four years, Carolina has won the Carmichael Cup, a silver trophy symbolic of overall athletic excellence in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Erickson is as proud of the University's sports facilities as he is of the men who play the games for the Tar Heels. He takes great personal pride in the recent addition to scenic Kenan Memorial Stadium, a project which cost $1 million.

Carmichael Auditorium, one of the most beautiful basketball arenas in the south, is only two years old.

Practically every other Tar Heel facility, from the tennis courts to the new baseball diamond, is the result of the planning and direction of Chuck Erickson.

Erickson first became known to Tar Heel fans more than 25 years ago when he was a halfback, playing under Chuck Collins. He had come south from Oak Park, Ill., where just down the block lived the world-famous author, Ernest Hemingway. The Chicago area was alive with good football and as a prepster, Chuck had excelled in that sport and in track.

In his great playing days at Carolina, he was nicknamed "The Rabbit" because of his great speed.

Like so many undergraduates, Erickson was impressed by the school and also by the town of Chapel Hill. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in Engineering in 1931 and then ventured away for a brief time to enter business.

In his career at Carolina, Erickson has done a little bit of everything. He's been a football and golf coach, assistant graduate manager of athletics; funds raiser; scout; and recruiter. In 1951, he succeeded the popular Coach Bob Fetzer as athletic director.

Chuck is a great asset to the University because of his intimate knowledge of the nation's athletic scene. As a Lt. Commander in the Navy, he helped set up many of the nation's pre-flight schools during World War II. As a result, he worked closely with many men who now serve in top athletic posts from coast to coast.

When Erickson gets an opportunity to relax, he usually heads for the golf course. He was an outstanding golf instructor (Harvie Ward was one of his pupils), and he can still shoot a round in the 70s on a hot day.

One of his golf partners is the former Mildred Wanell, who today is Mrs. Erickson. They're both extremely proud of a grandson, presented almost two years ago by daughter Susan.

THE DEAN SMITH STORY

By JACK WILLIAMS

Tim Connor, age 12, wrote the University of North Carolina sports publicity office for an autographed picture of Dean Smith and added this footnote to the letter: "Tell him I think he is an awful nice man."

Tim's adverbial paradox might leave some people wondering whether Dean Smith is really awful or really nice. But in a way, Tim summed up the situation. There really are two Dean Smith's although, of course, neither of them is awful.

There is Dean Smith, the basketball coach of the Carolina Tar Heels who has been so successful that just last year he was voted Atlantic Coast Conference Coach of the Year and ranked third in voting for that national honor.

This Smith is bold and sometimes tough and always demanding. He believes strongly in discipline, but his motivation to players is built on pride, not fear. He's a winner and wouldn't have it any other way. "Even in a friendly golf match, I play to win," Smith once told me. "There is no consolation in defeat."

The other Dean Smith is more complex than the basketball coach. His interests are many and varied, ranging all the way from theology to jazz. Religion is not something he concerns himself with only on Sunday mornings. It is his way of life.

Smith has developed a keen interest in theology and reads every book he can find on the subject. He often takes time out from his hectic schedule to have lunch with religion professors and finds their conversation stimulating.

"So many people seem afraid to talk about religion," Smith says. "That's bad. Religion is life. It is a subject that should be discussed."

Dean is a member of the National Board of Directors of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He has been active in this group since it was formed. "Some people don't understand our function," he says. "We're not a communion of saints. We need help, too, just like everyone else."

Smith is an occasional golfer (and a good one) and every once in a great while will play a fast set of tennis. But his idea of a real good time is curl up in a corner with a good book and listen to jazz records spinning on a phonograph player nearby. His favorites are Stan Kenton and June Christy. He finds television boring, except for sport events and an occasional late movie.

Coach Smith likes people . . . but not crowds. He and his lovely wife Ann entertain often, but the guest list always is small. Close friends of the Smith family rave about Ann's homemade chile which is a speciality of the house.

Ann is a talented artist and home decorator. Dean is not. In fact, he doesn't even qualify as a good Mr. Fixit. He'd rather hire someone to mow the grass than to do it himself.

Always well dressed, Smith makes hundreds of public appearances a year. He's an excellent speaker, but I have an idea that is not the part of his job he enjoys. All the fanfare of being a famous coach doesn't seem to faze him.

It is my opinion that he chose coaching because he likes to teach. He's a natural leader of men and his own background in sports proves that. At the University of Kansas, which he attended on an academic scholarship, Dean played catcher on the baseball team, quarterback on the football team and guard on the basketball team.

It is no coincidence that at each of those positions he was the player who called the signals. It was great training for his career in coaching.

He credits four men with helping to mould his coaching philosophy. They are Dr. Phog Allen, under whom he played at Kansas; Dick Harp, also of Kansas; Bob Spear, under whom he worked at Air Force Academy; and Frank McGuire, who brought him to Chapel Hill.

"The things we are doing at Carolina," Smith says, "are a combination of the ideas of these four men incorporated with some of ideas of our own."

The 36-year-old Smith is a native of Emporia, Kans. He came to Carolina as McGuire's assistant in 1958 and was named head coach in 1961 when McGuire left to join the professional ranks. Dean's six-year coaching record is 92 wins, only 51 defeats.

Indicative of the respect he has gained is the fact that Smith last year became the youngest coach ever to be named to the National Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

His players have great respect and admiration for him. One of his former players, Peppy Callahan, now an Air Force Captain, says, "I'll tell you what separates Coach Smith from so many other successful coaches. He is truly interested in you as a person. He stays in touch with you after you leave Chapel Hill and continues to offer advice and friendship."

And so, to heck with the grammar. I think little Tim Connor is right. Dean Smith really is an awful nice man!

Assistant Coaches

"... best in his department"

When the North Carolina Tar Heels led the nation in field goal accuracy in 1966 and came back to set a school scoring record in 1967, much of the credit for the marksmanship went to assistant coach John Lotz.

Lotz, an expert teacher of shooting technique, saw the 1966 team hit 51.7 percent of its shots and the 1967 team average 82.2 points a game. John spends a good deal of time in daily practice working individually with squad members on their shooting.

The popular Lotz currently is starting his third season on the Tar Heel staff. He is a brother of Danny Lotz, who was a member of Carolina's national championship team in 1957.

The 32-year-old Lotz attended Baylor and East Texas State and was a prominent member of the basketball team at the latter school. He played in the front court and his forte, naturally, was shooting.

John began his coaching career at Norwich, N. Y. and his first club there won 15 games after having scored only one victory the previous season. The next year, Lotz shifted to Nassapequa, a new high school in Long Island, N. Y. The first senior class there won the South Shore championship under Lotz's direction.

Lotz is a man on the move 365 days a year. When the basketball season is over, he spends a good deal of his time recruiting. Those close to the Tar Heel scene will tell you he's one of the best in this department.

A bachelor, John is active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

John Lotz

"one of the finest . . ."

Bill Guthridge, who helped guide Kansas State to national prominence as a player and a coach, is the newest member of Dean Smith's coaching staff at Carolina.

Guthridge succeeded Larry Brown who resigned to play for the New Orleans Buccaneers of the American Basketball Association. In his new post, Guthridge will coach the Carolina freshman and serve along with John Lotz as co-assistant on the varsity staff.

Prior to coming to the Tar Heels last summer, the 29-year-old Guthridge coached an AAU team in Puerto Rico to the league championship. He was selected coach of the year.

A native of Parsons, Kansas, Bill played for Kansas State during the years it reigned as the Big Eight champion—1958, 1959 and 1960. He was a starting guard. Following his graduation in 1960, he coached for two years at Scott City High in Kansas, then returned to his alma mater as assistant to the famed Tex Winter.

During Guthridge's time on the Kansas State staff, the Wildcats won 93 games and lost only 43. Three years ago, they advanced to the NCAA semifinals.

Thus Smith, a University of Kansas graduate, went to the top rival of his alma mater to pick a new assistant. Smith calls Guthridge "one of the country's finest young coaches."

Guthridge, a bachelor, is active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Bill Guthridge

John Lacey: A Trainer Of Many Champions

A trainer of champions! That's John Lacey, Carolina's head athletic trainer who ranks as one of the country's most respected men in his field.

Lacey has trained three national championship teams and four football teams which played in bowl games. And that's not all. He was trainer of the U. S. Olympic Basketball team in 1964 when the Americans beat Russia in the championship finals at Tokyo.

John was introduced to Carolina sports teams by the late Jim Tatum, who worked closely with Lacey at Maryland. While at Maryland, Lacey watched the football and lacrosse teams win national titles. At Carolina he helped guide the 1957 basketball team to a similar honor.

He trained three bowl teams at Maryland, clubs which played twice in the Orange Bowl and once in the Sugar Bowl. At Carolina, he was with the Tar Heels in the 1963 Gator Bowl. He currently is starting his 12th season at Carolina.

Lacey's background also includes a stint as trainer for three professional teams—the Chicago Rockets, New York Yankees and Baltimore Colts.

John attended high school at his hometown, Wallingford, Conn., and prepped at Tifton Academy in New York and at the Junior College of Therapy at New Haven. He also was a student in the Yale University Department of Health.

Lacey is married to the former Barbara Koch of Wallingford.

Smith: "Everything Must Fall Into Place"

North Carolina's Tar Heels, defending champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference and the East, have high hopes of making the new basketball season another year of headlines and heroes.

But Coach Dean Smith warns that if the 1967-68 team is to gain the stature of last season's club, "Everything must fall into place."

Smith, the 36-year-old Kansan who was Coach of the Year in the ACC last season, is confident he will have another strong team. "But it would be folly," he says, "to predict the type of success we had last season. It's not every year that a team is privileged to play in the National Semifinals."

Back from that sensational team are four starters, headed by All-America Larry Miller, the Pennsylvania strongboy who was ACC Player of the Year. Miller, a 6-4 forward, led the Tar Heels in scoring with an average of 21.9 and appears set to have a banner senior season.

Other returning starters are Rusty Clark, the tall and talented center from Fayetteville, N. C.; Dick Grubar, the fine playmaker from Schnectady, N. Y.; and Bill Bunting, fast-improving forward from New Bern, N. C. Clark is 6-10, Bunting 6-8 and Grubar 6-4. Smith feels that if Clark continues to improve as he did toward the end of last season, he could be one of the country's finest players.

The other starter, Bob Lewis, graduated and that poses the major problem. Lewis, a slender shotmaker from Washington, D. C., ranks as the second leading scorer in Tar Heel history. He capped his career with a blazing performance in the Eastern Regionals at College Park, Md., last March.

"It will be impossible for us to replace a player like Bob Lewis," Smith says. "He not only is a great scorer, but he contributed so much to our club as a leader. It will be very difficult to be as good a team without him."

Three other players, Tom Gauntlett, Mark Mirken and Donnie Moe, also graduated. Gauntlett was the team's valuable sixth man while Mirken and Moe played sparingly, but contributed greatly to team morale.

A host of top-flight reserves from last year's team and three highly-promising men up from the freshman team will be bidding for starting jobs next season.

Rugged Joe Brown, who came on fast near the end of last season; playmaker Gerald Tuttle and big Ralph Fletcher will be shooting for positions. Brown and Tuttle gave outstanding performances in the Tar Heels' Atlantic Coast Conference tournament sweep.

Best of the newcomers are Charlie Scott, Eddie Fogler and Jim Delany. Scott is a 6-5 jumping jack from Laurinburg, N. C., who averaged 25 points a game for the freshmen. He has extraordinary potential. Fogler, of Flushing, N. Y., and Delany, of South Orange, N. J., are backcourt operators with much savvy.

Smith says that depth and improved team speed will be two of the Tar Heels' strong points. Shooting could be a weakness. He hopes the squad will compensate for this deficiency with strong defense.

The schedule is one of the most demanding in Tar Heel history. In addition to the rugged ACC wars, Carolina faces such powerful outsiders as Virginia Tech, Vanderbilt, Kentucky, Princeton and Georgia Tech and takes part in the Far West Classic at Portland, Ore.

Smith says the Tar Heel goal will be the same as it was this year—the ACC championship. "That's always our No. 1 objective," he says. "The team that is good enough to win that will automatically get the national ranking it deserves."

A QUICKIE ESTIMATE

Lettermen lost (four):

Bob Lewis, 6-3 forward—A Helms Foundation All-America choice, he averaged 18.5 points a game and ranked fourth in rebounding with 176. He's now playing for the San Francisco Warriors.

Tom Gauntlett, 6-4 guard—A sharp outside shooter, he was the team's sixth man. He averaged 4.1 points a game and was a strong force in the Tar Heels' offense against the zone defense.

Mark Mirken, 6-6 center—Injured much of last season, but he still saw action in 14 games. A powerful rebounder, he was considered a fine replacement for Rusty Clark.

Donnie Moe, 6-2 guard—A fine ball-handler, he saw action in 17 games. Donnie was especially effective against a press.

Lettermen returning (eight):

Larry Miller, 6-4 forward—An All-American as a junior, he should be one of the nation's top stars again. He averaged 21.9 points a game last season to lead the Tar Heels and ranked second in rebounds with 299.

Rusty Clark, 6-10 center—A hot candidate for all-star honors this year, Rusty averaged 13.9 points a game last year and led the team in rebounding with 330.

Bill Bunting, 6-9 forward—A starter as a sophomore, he appears headed for a fine campaign. Bill averaged 7.7 points a game last year and had 179 rebounds.

Dick Grubar, 6-4 guard—The quarterback of the Tar Heels, Dick is a sure-fire starter. He averaged 9.2 points a game last season. He's an all-star candidate, too.

Joe Brown, 6-5 forward—A valuable reserve last year, Joe is trying to crack the starting lineup this time. He averaged 2.8 points a game, playing in 26 contests last season.

Gerald Tuttle, 6-0 guard—Gerald played in 30 of the 32 games last season, averaging 2.6 points a game. He's one of the best floor men and defensive players on the squad.

Ralph Fletcher, 6-5 forward—Ralph played in 17 games last season as a reserve and should see considerable action again. He's a fine defensive player.

Jim Frye, 6-5 forward—He played in only five games last season. His great spirit in practice is praised by Tar Heel coaches.

Replacements (six)—Charlie Scott, Ed Fogler and Jim Delany are the three leading sophomore candidates. They were the stars of last year's freshman team. Others up from the frosh squad are Al Armour, Gra Whitehead and Ricky Webb.

LOCATION: Blacksburg, Virginia

NICKNAME: Gobblers, Hokies, Techmen

CONFERENCE: Independent—NCAA

COLORS: Maroon and Orange

1967 ENROLLMENT: 9,400

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS: Frank O. Moseley

PUBLICITY DIRECTOR: Wendell Weisend

HOME COURT: Virginia Tech Coliseum (10,000)

HEAD COACH: Howie Shannon, Kansas St. '48

HIS RECORD: Previous seasons 3, Won 52, Lost 22

1967 OVERALL RECORD: 20-7

TEAM HONORS: State champions; reached semis of NCAA Eastern Regionals

SERIES RECORD: UNC 37, Tech 10

LETTERMEN RETURNING: 6-5 f-c Ted Ware 6-2 g Glen Combs; 6-4 g-f Wayne Mallard; 6-6 c-f Ken Talley; 6-4 g Chris Ellis; 6-3 f-g Stan Kerrick; 6-9 c-f Dan Wetzel

LETTERMEN LOST: 6-3 f Ron Perry; 6-6 f Don Brown; 5-10 g Buddy Martin; 6-7 c-f Rick Alander

REPLACEMENTS: 6-1 g W. R. Deskins; 6-5 f Ron Wagner; 6-8 f Dale Manuel

CAPTAIN: Game captains

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: Tech will be hard-pressed to match the sparkle of last year's squad, and a toughened schedule will double the Gobblers' problems. Overall, the Techmen are faster as a team, but will miss the ball-handling finesse and take-charge ability of Ron Perry. This year, as in past seasons, the problem will consist largely of getting past the tough opening games. Glen Combs, Tech's best outside shooter in history, is the man to watch.

1967 CONFERENCE RECORD: 1-11

SERIES RECORD: UNC 0, Kent 0

REPLACEMENTS: 6-7 f Tom Lagodich; 6-8 c Greg McGill; 6-0 g Bruce Burden; 6-3 f Bill Bullock (JC); 5-8 g Roger Harper (JC)

CAPTAIN: Larry Horner

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: Frank Truitt, in his second rebuilding year, will have more height and better depth than last season. A good-looking sophomore crop, plus a couple of Junior College graduates will add team speed and better shooting. In 11 of last year's 18 loses, Kent outscored opponents from field, so Flashes must cut down on fouling.

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: The team looks good on paper, stronger than last year's 21-5 edition, but paper appearances can be deceiving. Five lettermen return, plus at least one promising red-shirt and some good looking sophomores. Wyenandt was a forward last season. They will be joined by red-shirt Hal Bartch (6-5, Jr.) and sophs Art Welhoelter (6-6), Perry Wallace (6-5), Dan Due (6-0) and Godfrey Dillard (6-0). Other red-shirts who may come through are center Bill LaFevor (6-7) and guard Tandy Easley (6-3)

REPLACEMENTS: 6-4 c-g Mike Casey, 6-8½ c-f Dan Issel, 6-4 f Mike Pratt, 6-2 g Terry Mills

CAPTAIN: To be named

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: Thad Jaracz, 6-5, 215 lb., third team AP All-American (1965-66) who started every game last year, leads returning lettermen. The senior from Lexington was third high scorer (11.3) behind graduated Louie Dampier (20.6) and Pat Riley (17.4). Jaracz was leading rebounder with 8.3 average; Riley second with 7.7, Dampier third with 5.5. The Wildcats will be big, tough, young and eager. Talented sophs will create spirited competition for all positions. Casey and Issel are tagged as almost sure starters, with Pratt also a prime challenger for a forward position. Offense will be high-scoring, fast-break, pattern type which is trademark of Rupp teams. Defense should be greatly improved.

REPLACEMENTS: 6-3 f Geoff Petrie; 6-7 f John Hummer; 6-4 g Thomas Chestnut 6-8 c Michael Mardy

CAPTAIN: Joseph F. Heiser '68

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: It will be hard to improve on last year's record, the best ever compiled by a Princeton team. Also, Pete Carril is in his first year as the Tiger coach and much will depend on his ability and that of the team to reach a smooth working pitch. Much talent is on hand and Carril expects to produce a strong team again this season—in both Ivy League and intersectional play.

CAPTAINS: Arthur Harris and Gary Petersmeyer

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: Though 1966 was classified as a building year, Coach Howie Dallmar guided a young team that consisted of ten sophomores to his sixth consecutive winning season and to a strong fourth place finish in the tough Pacific-8 Conference. Returning from this team are the top three scorers, but lack of height and frontline scoring are problems that could plague the Indians again this year. Guard Don Griffin, in his first season of varsity ball, was the team's leading scorer. The guard position remains the team's strong point. Dallmar welcomes to his staff this year Paul Neumann, who played last season with the professional San Francisco Warriors, ending a 6 year NBA career. While at Stanford, he captained the 1958 and 1959 teams and is the school's seventh leading scorer.

CAPTAINS: Eddie Biedenbach and Bill Kretzer

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: Our basketball team should be improved over 1967, with the addition of Eddie Biedenbach giving us more experience and leadership. Sophomores Nelson Isley and Vann Williford will give us added depth, along with Biedenbach, who joins six returning lettermen from our team which finished strong last year. Biedenbach, an all-ACC player as a junior, led the scoring in State's 1965-66 team with a 16.2 average and he appears completely recovered from his back operation which forced him out of play last year. He is the most exciting player, offensively and defensively, that I have ever coached. Eddie will start in our basic 1-3-1 style offense, with Isley, Bill Kretzer, Joe Serdich, and Dick Braucher the other long-range starters.

CAPSULE OUTLOOK: No basketball coach in the United States will have as big a rebuilding job for 1967-68 as Bobby Roberts of Clemson. It's bad enough to lose a couple of starters, but Roberts not only saw four of his starters complete their eligibility, but so did the two top reserves. This group tied a school record for the most wins in a season (17). The only starter returning is the last of the four Mahaffey brothers—Richie, who won his spurs last season as a sophomore.

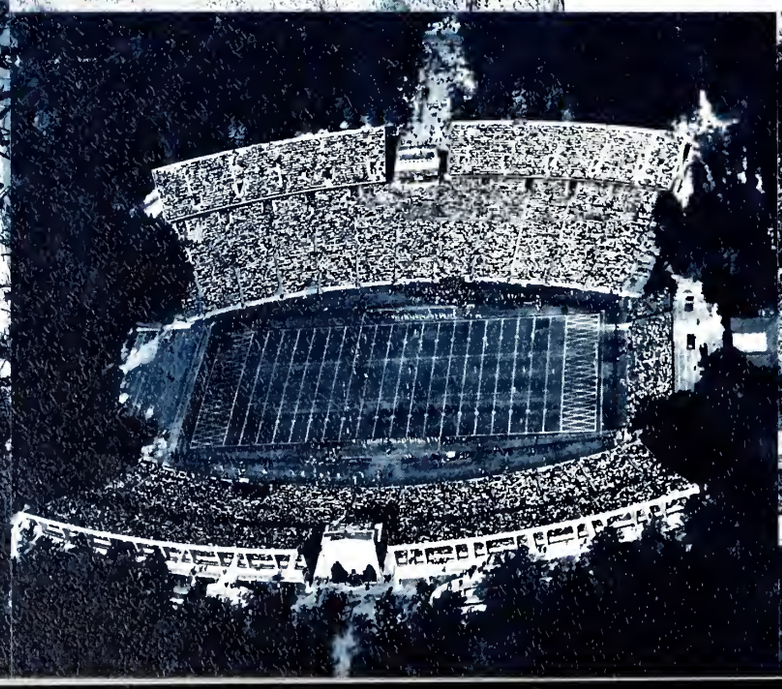
The University

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill has a proud heritage. It is a distinguished academic institution nestling in a unique community. Chapel Hill was recently described by Time Magazine as "one of the 20 most enjoyable places to live in the United States."



Chapel Hill

A Town Touched By Strange Magic

The late Jake Wade wrote this piece a good many years ago. Even today, it captures the spirit of this Town as well as anything we know. Mr. Wade was director of sports publicity at the University at the time of his death.

This is a town touched by strange magic and one to which its peoples, many of them a curious breed hold a rare and somewhat inexplicable attachment. Our town has no rivers, no mountains, no sea, but in the spring it is beautiful and in all seasons it is both wonderful and sad, romantic in the spirit of the youth it harbors in the educational process of the great State University, which is the town's principal industry.

Jake Wade

Chapel Hill, where bells wake you in the morning, regardless of whether you live in the Beta house, Cobb dormitory or on Laurel Hill Road, and where the bells keep ringing periodically the day long, with the chimes taking over in the majesty of twilight and on certain important occasions such as the big football games.

Not, really, a village any more, although its inhabitants, some living in the past, like to consider it as such . . . None of us will go far as to say that it possesses the tranquility and serenity of the Twenties, when Thomas Wolfe, and Paul Green and LeGette Blythe and "Monk" McDonald and the Carmichaels found adventure, melancholy and beauty in their diverse pursuits on the old campus and the unexplored lands beyond . . . It is not as small, and not quite as nice, but almost, and there is a whole new world of knowledge to be discovered here with resources of mind and matter in abundance.

Chapel Hill, where the civic clubs do not sing, salute flags or wear badges, but unostentatiously and quietly engage in humanitarian projects as earnestly as their back-slapping counterparts of the cities . . . . Where its only commercial radio station taboos hillbilly tunes and plays sweet music and deathless great arias.

In Chapel Hill that man in dungarees, coming out of the post office, is just as apt to be a best-selling novelist as the town's leading plumber or the divorced author of profound treatises on the science of nuptial compatibility . . . Where shoe shines, on the most modest leather, cost you twenty cents per copy, with the same treatment from five to ten cents cheaper in a much larger town across the way, but there you are not waited on by one of the town's most popular citizens who contributes philosophy sound sense and remarkably accurate football prognostications as a dividend to the dab of mundane polish.

People in our town go to church, pray, are kind and considerate, both the students and the townspeople, as in all towns . . . But where some of the ministers never wear hats, do wear sweaters, and sometimes drive the more modest editions of those little foreign make sports cars, but their democracy in manners is no compromise with the dignity of their souls, for our town is blessed with able and Godly preachers.

Chapel Hillians, like the folks in your town or city, play poker and bridge but, strangely, little or no gin rummy, and they play golf and handball . . . Chapel Hill, where the tiniest tots are able swimmers, and old men play an exciting brand of tennis . . . Where there are circles and cliques, as in all towns, for the socials, round tables and sports, but where those who travel together are frequently of oddly dissimilar tastes . . . A famous singer breaks bread often and attends games with a Kenan professor . . . A coach has tea regularly with a brilliant author . . . A University department head finds more wisdom, truth and beauty in the philosophy of a bistro keeper than in the ivory towers of his own intellectual level and prefers his company . . . But Chapel Hill is a town of neighbors who are bird watchers and who tend their flowers with loving care and talk over stone walls and drink their coffee or cocktails while talking oftenest about their children and grandchildren . . . That's Chapel Hill. God bless our town and its gentle way of life.

School of Excellence, Tradition and Beauty

The University of North Carolina has a proud heritage. It is a distinguished academic institution nesting in a unique community, once called by Time Magazine "one of the 20 most enjoyable places to live in the United States."

—The University's enrollment is approximately 14,700—and within 10 years it is expected to soar to almost 20,000.

—It is the oldest state university in the United States, first admitting students in 1795 when George Washington was president.

—There are 14 schools and colleges, including more than 70 departments and numerous other divisions.

—The Morehead Planetarium on campus helps train the astronauts.

—Thanks to 171 years of planning, the campus is considered one of the most beautiful anywhere.

—Its alumni are many. Thomas Wolfe, the great novelist, schooled here. Chapel Hill is recognized as a literary haven.

—An integral part of the University is the Division of Health Affairs, a six-fold medical-dentistry-public health complex which includes the North Carolina Memorial Hospital.

—Jimmy Beatty, a Tar Heel trackman of the 1950s, was the first American to break the four-minute mile barrier.

—In athletics, Carolina won its first National Championship in basketball in 1924 with a 23-0 mark. In 1957, the Tar Heels again rated the top spot with a 32-0 mark.

—There are more than 1,000 faculty members, many of them professors of international stature. But perhaps the most famed "professor" is Kay Kyser, a Chapel Hill resident. He was the original "Old Professor of Musical Knowledge."

—A distinction is the fact that most scholars from other colleges and universities in the south chose the University at Chapel Hill as their first choice to attend —when awards are made by the Southern Fellowship Fund.

—The University has its own on-campus radio and television stations.

—James Knox Polk, a graduate of the class of 1818, became the 11th President of the United States.

—Thirty of North Carolina's 49 governors have been graduates of the University at Chapel Hill.

—All 50 states are represented in the student body at Carolina.

—Carolina, Duke and Texas rank at the top of southern Universities in a comprehensive study of graduate schools conducted by the American Council on Education.

—In a traditional program of student self-government, undergraduates have their own legislature, system of honor courts and student publications. These include a daily newspaper "The Daily Tar Heel."

—Chapel Hill is the center of an area abundant in concerts, art exhibitions, lectures, plays and sports events. Many of these are held in Chapel Hill—at the Ackland Art Center, Morehead Art Galleries, Hill Music Hall, Carolina Playmakers Theatre, Forest Theatre, Graham Memorial, Memorial Hall, Gerrard Hall and Carmichael Auditorium.

—Of a full-time faculty of more than 1,000, more than half are natives of states other than North Carolina. Of those with doctorate degrees, Carolina faculty comes from the following institutions:

Harvard	58
University of Chicago	29

Carmichael Auditorium: "Blue Heaven"

The "Blue Heaven" of University of North Carolina basketball! That's William D. Carmichael, Jr., Auditorium.

This building, rated one of the most beautiful basketball arenas in the south, is located in the center of the University campus. It seats 8,800.

Carmichael Auditorium was opened in the fall of 1965 and the first basketball game was played there against William and Mary in December of that year. The Tar Heels won that game, 82-68, and went on to post 16-11 record that season.

Carolina set the Carmichael scoring record in the second game played in the arena when it smashed the University of Richmond by the lop-sided score of 127-76.

All the permanent seats in Carmichael Auditorium are painted "Carolina Blue." The interior of the building is painted in several shades of blue with the lightest at the floor and the darkest near the top.

Most of the Carolina athletic offices are located in Carmichael. Athletic Director C. P. (Chuck) Erickson has his office there. The building also houses Coach Dean Smith's basketball offices and a basketball film room.

Exterior, Carmichael Auditorium

The building adjoins Woollen Gym, longtime site of varsity basketball competition and now the center of physical education and intramural activities.

The Auditorium is named for the late William D. Carmichael, Jr., one of the most popular gentlemen ever to serve on the University campus. He gave up a lucrative Wall Street business to become associated with Carolina.

In Chapel Hill, Carmichael was comptroller and later the vice president of the Consolidated University. He served for a time as acting president of the Consolidated University. He died in 1961.

Educational Foundation Interest Booming

Interest in the University of North Carolina's Educational Foundation is at an all-time high as the Tar Heels prepare to launch the new basketball season.

Ernie Williamson, executive secretary of the Foundation, has been elated by the response of Tar Heels everyhere who are excited over Carolina basketball prospects.

"We're especially proud," says Williamson, "that we have received 'coming back into the Foundation' notes from so many Tar Heels. Our program is booming."

Williamson always has felt that a donation to the Educational Foundation was not specifically a donation to athletics. He contends that the high type of young man who is awarded a scholarship not only pays dividends to the athletic department, but also is a great asset to the University.

He feels that the overall bonus is in helping a worthy young man obtain a college education. Athletics, while important, come second.

Williamson, a Tar Heel tackle during the Fabulous Forties, willingly accepts any donation to the Educational Foundation. He realizes that the small donor of today is the Big Ram of tomorrow. Membership in the Rams Club is confined to those who contribute $100 or more.

A special room on the south wing of the Kenan Feld House serves as a meeting place for Rams and their families. The area is open two hours before a game and provides a lounge, picnic facilities and restrooms for those who come early. In the off-season, other functions are held there in relation to the Foundation program.

Foundation members receive priority on seat locations for football and basketball games. "A Foundation membership is a badge of prestige and loyalty to the University," Williamson says. "Many of our finest members, however, did not necessarily attend the University. They heard about our program and felt it was most worthy."

Williamson points out that a membership of any kind directly helps earnest young men achieve an education. All donations to the Foundation are tax deductible.

ORIGIN AND INCORPORATION

Three loyal and athletic-minded University of North Carolina alumni met in the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure at Raleigh in December of 1938 and organized the Educational Foundation, Inc.

They were John Umstead Jr. of Chapel Hill, Max Abernathy of Raleigh and Benton Stacy of Reidsville.

A charter was drawn with these three men as the incorporators and submitted to the late O. Max Gardner, who had his law firm clear it with the Internal Revenue Department as a chiratable organization. The charter was issued December 7, 1938.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Educational Foundation, Inc., is to raise funds for providing scholarships or grants-in-aid at the University to worthy and qualified high school students with athletic ability.

The Educational Foundation, Inc., operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

It has the blessing and good will of all the University administration and, in its unique field, occupies a status similar to that of the Business Foundation, The Medical Foundation, and other money-raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

The full amount of all donations of Foundation members is used for scholarships and grants. The organization has no administrative expense.

About Ernie Williamson . . .

The Executive Secretary

Born in Crewe, Va., on Sept. 9, 1922, Ernie Williamson is a North Carolina graduate with A.B., and M.A. degrees. He played one season of football here under Carl Snavely in 1946 and was a fine tackle.

He was lured away to play professional football and had tenures with Los Angeles and Washington before his career was cut short by a knee injury.

Ernie returned to Chapel Hill to complete his education and went to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., where he was an assistant football coach two years and head coach three years. He also coached wrestling and track.

Married to the former Elva Smith of Lawrenceville, Va., Ernie is the father of a son, Wayne, 18, and a daughter, Carole, 11.

Carolina's Greatest Players

By RON SHINN

The year is 1957. The place is Kansas City and a national basketball championship is only six seconds away from being decided.

It's the big showdown pitting the nation's number one team, a miracle-producing band of North Carolina Tar Heels who have 31 consecutive victories behind them, and the nation's number two team, a crew of Kansas Jayhawks led by a basketball phenomena called Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain.

Joe Quigg, a Carolina forward with ice water in his veins, is on the foul line for two shots. His team trails by one point, 53-52, with only six seconds left in the game's third overtime period.

The first shot fell cleanly through. The score was tied, 53-53. Then Quigg put himself and his teammates into the record books with a freethrow that gave North Carolina its first national basketball championship.

The 1957 team is still called the greatest in Carolina hardwood history. It set a national record of 32 wins in a single season which has never been topped.

Pete Brennan, Tommy Kearns, Bob Cunningham and everybody's All-Everything Lennie Rosenbluth were Quigg's teammates on the miracle team.

Rosenbluth was selected by the Helms Foundation as the national Player of the Year in college basketball, along with being the Atlantic Coast Conference Athlete of the Year and being named to every major All-America team. He set UNC scoring records which still stand today.

But the members of the 1957 team are only five in a long history of Carolina basketball greats, and the list is growing by at least one name each year.

Basketball was first played at Carolina in 1903, and the first really great team was another national champion, this time in 1924. This was the team which finished 23-0 and was voted national champion of that year.

Jack Cobb, a member of the Helms Basketball Hall of Fame, and Cartwright Carmichael were the leaders on that team along with the great Monk McDonald. The game was slower and more methodical in that day, but these stars were skilled and graceful artists and their marksmanship was superb.

Ivan (Jack) Glace was the Carolina super-star of the 1930's but the real story of that era came near the end of the decade. It had to do with a basketball player who could barely see the basket.

George Glamack, "The Blind Bomber," was a Carolina All-America in both 1940 and 1941. His eyesight was so poor he could barely distinguish the hoop. Yet Glamack perfected a great hook shot, which he tossed with either hand, and delivered from anywhere on the court with an uncanny accuracy.

North Carolina's next great era came in 1946 with a team that went to the national finals against Oklahoma A&M, a quintet led by a seven-footer named Bob Kurland.

Bones McKinney, later a successful coach at Wake Forest, was a member of that team along with Bob Paxton, Jim White, Jim Jordan and John "Hook" Dillon.

The honor roll grows longer in the late 1950's with standouts like Larry Brown, a star on the 1964 Olympic team and the Most Valuable Player in the tough Amateur Athletic Union league in 1964. Brown returned to Carolina as an assistant coach before signing with the New Orleans Buccaneers of the American Basketball Association when it was formed.

Doug Moe, number one draft choice for the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association in 1962, is also with the Buccaneers after a three-year stint in the Italian AAU league. Moe was tabbed All-America in 1961 at Carolina and was voted Most Valuable Player in the 1960 Dixie Classic.

Lee Shaffer was another Carolina sensation who made good as a pro. He was top draft choice by Syracuse in 1960 and was All-Pro in 1963.

York Larese was a big star in the early 1960's. Larese captained the 1961 Tar Heels and played pro ball with the Philadelphia Warriors.

And then there was the Kangroo Kid. His name was Billy Cunningham and he earned a distinction because of his amazing ability to jump higher and longer than anyone else.

Cunningham, a three-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference choice and an All-America selection his junior and senior years, still holds several North Carolina individual scoring and rebounding records.

He grabbed a total of 1062 rebounds during his career, breaking the old school standard by more than 200 and leading the ACC in that category for three seasons. As a combination scorer-rebounder, Cunningham is the greatest of all time here although Rosenbluth still ranks as the Tar Heels' most prolific point producer.

In his sophomore season with the Philadelphia 76'ers Cunningham was instrumental in that team's NBA championship drive.

The most recent addition to the Carolina honor roll is Bob Lewis, a 1967 graduate who achieved All-America recognition at Carolina. A sparkplug on the Tar Heel's 1967 team which went to the NCAA finals in Louisville, Ky., he was also named the Most Valuable Player of the NCAA Eastern Regionals that year.

Lewis, later drafted by the San Francisco Warriors, averaged 27.4 points per game during his junior season and established a single game scoring record with 49 points against Florida State.

Basketball teams do not win games on their past achievements, however, even when they rank—as does Carolina—with the best in the country.

It is this outstanding tradition that causes the thousands of Tar Heel basketball enthusiasts to eagerly anticipate the coming of each winter.

That is when the season starts here in Chapel Hill and the season is basketball.

The honor roll of All-Americans grows longer.

UNC Freshman Basketballers Are Lean and Hungry

Coach Bill Guthridge will have his work cut out for him with a freshman team that will have only three scholarship players on the roster.

"Our number one goal will be to prepare these boys in the philosophy of Carolina offense and defense," said Guthridge. "We have stressed the fundamentals, and as the season goes along, we hope to instill in the boys the type of game attitude that will make them good varsity players."

The number two objective for the team will be to win as many freshman games as possible, although an impressive won-loss record may be hard to come by.

"Two things the team will have going for it is a good amount of height and a tremendous amount of spirit," said Guthridge.

The height is contained in the 6-10 frame of Lee Dedmon, a Baltimore, Md. product; 6-9 Don Eggleston, a Morehead Scholar from Charlotte, N. C.; and 6-7 David Chadwick from Orlando, Fla.

Richard Tuttle (6-0), brother of Gerald, will provide speed, spirit and scoring at his guard position. He, Chadwick and Dedmon are the three scholarship players. Other players who should see a lot of action are Dale Gipple, a six-foot guard from Burlington; Richard Garrett, a 5-9 backcourter from Durham, N. C.; and Holt Trotman, a 6-5 forward from Winston-Salem.

Press, Radio and TV

Sellout crowds saw Carolina play in 26 of its 32 basketball games last season and that explains why press coverage of the Tar Heels ranks among the largest and most enthusiastic in the nation.

More than 45 radio stations in three states will carry the Tar Heel Basketball Network during the coming season. Bill Currie, popular sports director of WSOC-TV in Charlotte, will handle the play-by-play of all Carolina games.

Currie also will be the M.C. throughout the season on The Dean Smith Show which will be televised on five stations covering the entire state each Sunday afternoon. This show is sponsored by The Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

The Carmichael Auditorium press box always is filled to capacity. The sports writers of the big North Carolina dailies are regular guests and are always welcome in Chapel Hill.

Working press credentials for Carolina home games can be secured by contacting the Office of Sports Information. Requests are screened with care to assure a working press box. Children, wives and pets are not admitted in compliance with the working code of the Basketball Writers of America.

Assistant Coach Dave Corless

David Corless is starting his second year as a basketball assistant at Carolina. Last year the Charleston, S. C. native and his twin brother Hugh were on Dean Smith's staff while they worked on their master's degrees in physical education.

Since the 1966-67 campaign, David has been named the assistant to Guthridge and Hugh has left for a head coaching position in Louisiana. In his new role, David will be assisting Gutheridge with the freshmen and helping scout for the varsity. In the meantime, he is doing post graduate work in education.

David was a high school All-America along with his brother at North Charleston High where they led their team to two straight state championships. Both were stellar members of the La Grange College basketball team in Georgia; Hugh making the Little All-America squad.

Athletic Facilities

North Carolina's athletic plant rates with the best in the nation. It's modern, it's beautiful—and it's constantly being updated.

Familiar to Chapel Hill visitors is Kenan Stadium, enlarged to 43,000 permanent seats in 1963 at a cost of more than a million dollars. Constructed in 1927, it is a natural amphitheatre surrounded by tall pines. Kenan Field House, where the football and baseball teams dress, was also renovated in 1963.

New Carmichael Auditorium, a blue heaven for Tar Heel basketball teams, replaced Woollen Gymnasium in 1965. It seats 8,500. Chair-type seats form a horse-shoe pattern.

Woollen, which was built in 1938, has a central gymnasium which covers more than an acre. Along with eight basketball courts for the use of the student body, it contains locker rooms and handball, volleyball, and badminton courts, along with special rooms for various other sports.

Attached to the gymnasium is Bowman Gray Memorial Indoor Swimming Pool. This 165 foot Olympic pool is 55 feet wide and is completely modern in every respect. It can seat 1,500 for big meets.

Kessing Outdoor Swimming Pool, built in 1943, is 49 feet by 150 feet in size and is open to University students and faculty during the warmer months.

UNC netmen, ACC kingpins year in and out, play on six teniko, all-weather courts. In addition, there are 14 clay, 26 asphalt and two concrete courts for recreation.

The Tin Can, a supplementary gym, is 110 feet wide and 330 feet long. North Carolina's indoor track is rigged there, except when it's moved to Woollen for the ACC Indoor Championships. It's also used for baseball practice in rainy weather and intramural games.

Coach Walt Rabb's baseballers played their first game in their new, tree-framed park in the spring of 1966. Still unnamed, the Athletic Department plans to spend about $100,000 in improvements. It replaced Emerson Field, where Tar Heel baseball teams had competed for almost 40 years.

North Carolina's defending ACC golf champions (1966) practice and play on Finley, an 18 hole championship course.

As for trackmen, they've enjoyed first rate facilities for almost 20 years.

Coach Joe Hilton's students run on the ACC's only indoor track during the winter season. It's a wooden, banked ten-lapper which he values at $15,000.

The outdoor track, Fetzer Field, was built in 1935 and dedicated to the dean of Southern track and a long time Athletic Director here, R. A. (Coach Bob) Fetzer.

Built of cinders, it is a quarter mile long and 30 feet wide with a 220 yard straightaway. The stadium has a seating capacity of 7,000. The track team has dressing facilities beneath the stadium.
